The significance of the mother tongue

LanguageOne's programmes provide students with a solid foundation in their own language and culture. Mother tongue proficiency strengthens the foundation for acquisition of language skills and academic achievements. Mother tongue education is an essential investment in future success, especially for children growing up abroad.

From a thorough awareness and knowledge of your own language and culture, comes a growing sense of own identity which in turn increases the self-confidence of a child. It is a powerful way of helping children to connect with their roots. A home away from home, anywhere in the world; this is exactly what LanguageOne has to offer.

Tailored Education

LanguageOne provides tailor-made education to students aged between 3 and 18 years. Education that fits every individual level and background and aims to achieve maximum academic results for each student. Personal contact and good quality management give us a deeper understanding of the needs and capacities of each individual student and we adjust the lessons and support accordingly.

Social-emotional and academic growth are at the heart of both our primary and secondary education programmes. These crucial elements are nurtured in a positive pedagogical climate, with clear structures, in which our teachers can establish a safe, enjoyable and stimulating learning environment.

Strength in partnership

Our students are educated by a team of competent, qualified and experienced teachers and local directors at multiple locations in Europe, the Middle and Far East and Australia. The executive management, located in The Netherlands, supports and assists them in a way that ensures cohesion, development and continuity within the organisation. Together with a continuous focus on quality and improvement, this has made LanguageOne the successful organisation it is today.

LanguageOne intends to bring high quality mother tongue education to more students and in more locations around the world. In order to achieve this, the executive management and team will focus their efforts on expansion and further development of our educational curriculum, the broadening of our geographical distribution and the professional development of our team, whilst maintaining a sound financial policy.

LanguageOne will team up with expert teachers, leading (international) schools and business partners. Together we will develop contemporary curricula that are consistent with existing national and international education systems. This will ensure a student's smooth reintegration when moving to another destination or going back to his home country.
